SUMILLA: There has been an ongoing debate about teaching pronunciation in class. The fact is that there are as many different accents in English, as countries where it is spoken... and more. This is why it is very important to know the sounds of letters and words and the differences within. This workshop will take us from the basic, to some advanced knowledge of phonetics and phonology including the articulatory system, phonemic chart, suprasegmental phonology (intonation), etc. But more important, we will explore techniques that we can use to teach correct pronunciation to our students. We will also explore those hidden pronunciation tricks we haven't seen about.
